Information Writing Checklist
	Grade 4	NOT YET	STARTING TO	YES
	Structure
Overall	I taught readers different things about a subject. I put facts, details, quotes, and ideas into each part of my writing.
Lead	I hooked my readers by explaining why the subject mattered, telling a surprising fact, or giving a big picture. I let readers know that I would teach them different things about a subject.
Transitions	I used words in each section that help readers understand how one piece of information connected with others. If I wrote the section in sequence, I used words and phrases such as before , later , next , then , and after . If I organized the section in kinds or parts, I used words such as another , also , and for example .
Ending	I wrote an ending that reminded readers of my subject and may have suggested a follow-up action or left readers with a final insight. I added my thoughts, feelings, and questions about the subject at the end.
Organization	I grouped information into sections and used paragraphs and sometimes chapters to separate those sections. Each section had information that was mostly about the same thing. I may have used headings and subheadings.
	Development
Elaboration	I taught my readers different things about the subject. I chose those subtopics because they were important and interesting.
	I included different kinds of facts and details such as numbers, names, and examples.
	I got my information from talking to people, reading books, and from my own knowledge and observations.
	I made choices about organization. I might have used compare/contrast, cause/effect, or pro/con. I may have used diagrams, charts, headings, bold words, and definition boxes to help teach my readers.
Craft	I made deliberate word choices to teach my readers. I may have done this by using and repeating key words about my topic.
	When it felt right to do so, I chose interesting comparisons and used figurative language to clarify my points.
